G. W. CHILDS DEAD.

The Great Philanthropist Expires This Morning

ONE MINUTE AFTER THREE.

A sudden change takes place for the worse at 10 o'clock last night and at midnight his physicians gave up all hope for his recovery—his last hours peaceful ones.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.—George W. Childs, philanthropist and editor of The Public Ledger, died at 3:01 o'clock this morning.

At midnight his physician issued a bulletin stating that his respiration, which became embarrassed at 10 p. m., was steadily growing worse; that his pulse was flagging and his condition was beyond hope.

After midnight the patient sank rapidly and it soon became certain that the end was very near. At the bedside when the beloved journalist and philanthropist passed away were:

George C. Thomas and James W. Paul of the firm of Drexel & Company, Mr. and Mrs. John Drexel, Miss Peterson, neice of Mrs. Childs, Miss Stanley, companion to Mrs. Childs and Colonel Edward De Morrell.

Mr. Child's illness began with a fainting spell, which seized him while he was in his office in the Ledger building at 5 o'clock on the afternoon of Thursday, Jan. 18, just as he was putting on his overcoat preparatory to going to his home at Twenty-second and Walnut streets. He was alone at the time and when an attendant who heard him fall reached his side he was totally unconscious.

Dr. Da Costa, his family physician, was hastily summoned, and restoratives were applied, with the result that in an hour the patient was able to walk, with the assistance of two strong men, to his carriage which stood at the door. He was conveyed to his city home and Mrs. Childs, who was at the country place in Wootton, was summoned.

Dr. Da Costa called in Drs. Lydia and Morris and these three issued a statement that Mr. Childs' illness was nothing more than attack of vertigo, arising from indigestion from which he would soon recover. The news of his illness brought hosts of inquiring friends from this city to the door and hundreds of inquiries by mail and telegraph from those abroad. To all was given the assurance that Mr. Childs was not seriously ill.

On the following Sunday night, however, the physician reluctantly admits that paralysis of the lower limbs accompanied the attack which, as the Associated Press had previously announced, was in reality a second attack of apoplexy.

At times there has been alternating periods of hope and fear as the semi-daily bulletins announced changes for the better or the worse until at midnight, last night, came the announcement that the hope was dead and dissolution imminent.

There is but little reason to doubt that the immediate cause of the attack was overwork and anxiety attendant upon his efforts to see that the memory of his life-long friend, the late A. J. Drexel, was properly honored.

All of the day upon which came the attack was spent by Mr. Childs in preparing for the Drexel memorial services held in the Drexel institution on Saturday, Jan. 20, two days after the fatal Thursday. Twice during the day Mr. Childs had gone in person to the institute, and in person had seen that all necessary arrangements were completed.

His enforced absence from the ceremony worried him profoundly, and to this fact was largely due the relapse which occurred on the night of Jan. 21, since which time there has been an uneasiness in the minds of the physicians as to his condition, amounting to almost a certainty that he could not recover.

They were almost inseparable in their companionship, and it was a sad blow to have so near a friend carried off so suddenly. George W. Childs Drexel, the youngest son of the deceased banker, was several years ago determined upon as the one who should succeed his father in his interest in The Ledger.

Mr. Childs was probably as widely known as any man in the United States, and there can be no doubt that he was by far the best known resident of Philadelphia. His popularity in this city was wonderful. He was a familiar figure on Chestnut street, from the fact that when he was in the city he always walked to and from The Ledger office, and so regular was he in his habits that if he did not appear on the street at about the regular time people began to inquire whether he was ill.

The news of his last illness spread over the city in an almost incredible short time after he was attacked and inquiries as to his condition began to pour into The Ledger office within a few minutes and a keen interest was shown until the hour of his demise. To all appearances Mr. Childs was a robust man, yet his constitution was very delicate.

He was of a highly nervous temperament and with the attack which proved to be the beginning of his last illness came almost complete nervous prostration. Those that knew him best, believe that he was never a thoroughly happy or contented man since the death of his boon companion and business partner, Anthony J. Drexel.

The senior Drexel owned a half interest in the paper, and this interest became the property of the son upon his father's death. Young Drexel has been carefully educated and trained with this end in view, and with remarkable aptitude for the career which had been chosen for him.

Shortly after his father's death his name was placed at the head of the editorial columns of The Ledger as the publisher, along with that of Mr. Childs as 'editor and proprietor.'

Mr. Childs' private office in the Ledger building, which has long been regarded as one of the interesting institutions of the city, is daily visited by many people from abroad.

MR. CHILDS' CITY HOME.

He had three homes, which he and his family occupied at different seasons of the year. His town house on Walnut street is a white marble structure and is one of the most imposing edifices on that street of aristocratic homes. His country home at Wootton, Delaware county, is surrounded by 60 acres of beautiful grounds. The lawn is said to be the most beautiful of any in this country. Here the hospitality, which Mr. Childs ever delighted in, had one of its principal theaters. The roll of visitors included many distinguished strangers. In addition to his town and country houses, Mr. Childs had a handsome cottage at Long Branch adjoining that of the late A. J. Drexel.

WOOTTON, THE COUNTRY HOME OF G. W. CHILDS.

Mr. Childs gave his money away in the most practical and the most impractical fashion. He pensioned all who worked in his service, which was very practical. He would subscribe to put a stained glass window in a church in memory of a poet who has been dead two centuries, though, an ocean rolled between that church and Mr. Childs' business office. This was very impractical. The truth is that Mr. Childs' charities were so numerous and embraced so wide a range that they touched the extremities.

George William Childs was born in Baltimore in 1820. The practical part of his makeup was born with him. When he was 12 years of age he spent a summer vacation as errand boy in a book store at a salary of $2 a week and enjoyed it. Almost anything might be expected of a boy of 12 who enjoyed running errands, and Mr. Childs has not disappointed the expectation. Soon after he removed to Philadelphia and entered a store, doubtless as a mixture of clerk and errand boy.

He would get up very early in the morning, go down to the store and wash the pavement and put things in order before breakfast, and in the winter would make the fire and sweep out the store. In the same spirit, when books were bought at night at auction, he would early the next morning go for them with a wheelbarrow. In this way he worked till he became of age, when he went into business with Mr. Peterson under the firm name of R. E. Peterson & Company. The only interval in his business career was 15 months in the United States navy when he was 18. He liked running errands, but he couldn't abide the navy.

One of the first successful books published by Peterson & Childs was Dr. Kane's 'Arctic Explorations.' Mr. Childs thus told the story of its publication: 'It did not look at first as though we had made a wise venture. When the work was ready to issue I took a sample copy and went over to New York to solicit orders from the leading booksellers. The largest house would only give me a small order. 'Mr. Childs,' they said, 'you won't sell more than a thousand copies altogether.' They ordered at first only a few hundred copies, but soon after sent for 5,000 more to meet the demand. Within one year after the publication we paid Dr. Kane a copyright of nearly $70,000.'

Then the firm got out Parson Brownlow's book, selling 50,000 copies in advance. This was another remarkable success, which was followed by others not far behind.

In 1894 Mr. Childs purchased The Public Ledger. 'The war,' he said, 'by greatly increasing the cost of labor and material, chiefly white paper, had made it impossible to continue, save at a loss, the publication of The Public Ledger as a penny paper. It had been sold at a cent ever since it was started in 1836, and Messrs. Swain & Abell, then the proprietors, though they had lost over $100,000 by keeping the rate at 6 1-4 cents per week were averse to a change.'

'They made their great mistake. They seemed to regard the past prosperity of The Ledger as due alone to its selling for a penny. They forgot that in 1894 the purchasing power of a penny was not what it was before the war. Thus the proprietors, unable to agree to increase the price of the paper or the rates of advertising, determined to dispose of their property. The Ledger was for sale, and I bought it—the whole of it, just as it was—for a sum slightly in excess of the amount of its annual loss.'

'It was not generally known, of course, that the establishment was then losing about $480 upon every number of the paper which it issued. To all appearances it was as prosperous as ever. The circulation was great. The columns were crowded with advertisements. Yet, as a matter of fact, there was a weekly loss of $3,000, or $150,000 a year.'

Mr. Childs had good business judgment, but it required something more than judgment to pay $150,000 for a piece of property losing that amount annually—it required pluck. The owner at the end of the first week doubled the price and advanced the advertising rate.

There was a considerable falling off of advertisements, but the paper had become a medium of communication between employers and employed, between buyers and sellers, landlords and tenants, bereaved families and their friends, and the first loss of patronage was soon regained, and from then till now The Ledger has grown in prosperity. It paid Mr. Childs at the time of his death more than $1,000 a day clear profit.

Mr. Childs made a great many 'in memoriam' presents. A few years ago Stratford-upon-Avon was clothed in holiday attire while its people were inaugurating a fountain which the Philadelphia millionaire had presented to the birthplace of Shakespeare. A poem by Oliver Wendell Holmes was read, and the queen telegraphed through her private secretary, 'Her majesty is much gratified by your kind and loyal expressions and is pleased to hear of the handsome gift of Mr. Childs to Stratford.'

A year later Archdeacon Farrar preached a sermon on the occasion of the unveiling of a memorial window placed in St. Margaret's church, Westminster, London, by Mr. Childs in memory of John Milton. Besides these gifts Mr. Childs has contributed to mark the graves of the American poets Paul Hamilton Hayne and Richard Henry Wilde. He also helped to mark the grave of Leigh Hunt. He was the largest subscriber to the Edgar A. Poe monument in Baltimore and to a memorial window in the church at Bronham, England, to the memory of the poet Thomas Moore. He was a large subscriber to Mr. Stephens' monument fund.

Of Mr. Childs' more practical American charities, even those which are known are too numerous to catalogue. To serve him in his employ was sure to bring the employee a pension when worn out, and during his term of service a certainty of being cared for in misfortune. But doubtless the unknown charities surpassed those which were manifest. He gave away a fortune every year. One who once saw a private record of his charities has said that, though the period covered was only one month, the total amount given was $28,000.

In 1888 there was a movement made to bring Mr. Childs' name forward for the presidency, but he peremptorily declined to permit his friends to do so. Other less important offices have been often suggested for him, but he always seemed to prefer to manage The Public Ledger.

'I look with genuine pleasure,' he once said, 'upon my experiences as a publisher. I was more than prosperous in acquiring the friendship of so many worthy men among the publishers, booksellers and authors with whom I came in contact. If I were to enumerate them their names would fill a page.'

FAMILY CHLOROFORMED.

HAMILTON, O., Feb. 3.—Burglars entered the residence of John B. Schuster on Heaton street. Mrs. Schuster and her three children were sleeping in the dining-room on a lounge, and her husband was in bed upstairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Schuster were both chloroformed by the burglars, and while they were in a state of insensibility the house was ransacked. A half dozen silver spoons, a half dozen knives and forks, tablespoons, teaspoons and one pair of figured gold bracelets, also $2 in money, were taken. Mrs. Schuster awoke from her stupor and was met by one of the burglars. She fell in a swoon with her 2-months-old child in her arms, while the burglar made his escape through a transom.

Preacher on His Muscle.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 3.—J. W. Watson, a country divine, while conducting a revival last night at Yellow Springs was called a liar and a fool by Sandy Pettiford, whereupon the preacher marched down the aisle and pulled Pettiford out of his pew. He then pounded the peace disturber with his fists until members of the congregation interfered.

Birds Suffocated.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 4.—Early in the morning fire was discovered in the rear of Molter's bakery on Third avenue. It badly scorched the building. There were 200 canary birds in the place, all of which were suffocated.

FRESH IMPULSE TO BUSINESS.

Confidence Strengthened by the Success of the Treasury.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—R. G. Dun & Company's weekly review of trade says: A fresh impulse has been given to business this week by the success of the treasury in obtaining gold for its reserve, thus strengthening confidence in its ability to maintain gold payments. Revenue had fallen off so much and the prospects for the loan looked so unfavorable, until financial institutions here decided to carry it through, that some anxiety about the monetary future was natural.

Gradual improvement in business explains the appearance of more commercial paper in the market this week than has been seen for a long time, though as yet the vast accumulation of idle funds is proof enough that trade has by no means regained normal proportions. Industrial recovery continues, though it is but gradual, in response to the demand of a people whose consumption at its lowest is greater than that of any other country, and more mills are now at work.

Wheat has advanced about half a cent because western receipts were only 1,446,404 bushels for the week, against 2,893,000 last year, though there are no signs of material decrease in the enormous visible supply, and Atlantic exports dwindled to 413,990 bushels for the week, against 1,404,471 last year. Smaller receipts and exports of corn have not prevented a slight decline, and pork products are dull without important change.

Cotton advanced a shade, but closed without change from last week, receipts from plantations still exceeding last year's though less than of late, while exports continue larger than a year ago. Foreign consumption is heavy, but American mills are taking much less than a year ago. The market for cotton goods has a better tone, and more staples have been taken, particularly print cloths, with a slight advance in price, but all qualities are extremely low and scarcely any increase in the working force is seen.

Some demoralization is again reported in prices of woollens, friezes having been reduced in price, and trade in overcoats is not satisfactory. There is more activity in suitings since the date for new duties was deferred, but not many of the better grades are yet on the market. Howard cashmere are quoted at $1.50 against $1.90 last year. Spring goods are offered at a great sacrifice, but there is more business in dress goods, and tapestry carpets are in better demand, while some lines of brussels have been reduced in price. Sales of wool are still small, for the week 4,505,700 pounds, against 8,178,000 last year.

Eastern trade in boots and shoes still hesitates with Boston shipments 23 per cent below last year's, but western factories are reported a little better employed, about 15 per cent below their full capacity.

Larger demand for structural iron and steel, for railway materials, except rails, for barbed wire and especially for wire nails and wire rods, gives a better look to the iron industries both east and west. Chicago notes distinct improvement; at Pittsburgh business is larger though prices do not gain, and even at Philadelphia trade is better both for pig and finished products, while encouragement is found in the fact that prices do not further decline.

Only four of the 11 stacks of the Seth Thomas Iron company are in operation, and of Collierville coke ovens 8,410, against 9,106 idle, offers having been made as low as 85 cents, facts which indicate that the improvement is not great as yet, but there are reported heavy sales of billets and wire rods at slightly better prices. Two events of some note are a sale of Bessemer pig at Cleveland for $10, and the capture of an order for 60 miles of wrought iron pipe for a Canada company by the American tube works.

Domestic exports for four weeks have been 14 per cent lower than a year ago, while imports have been 37 per cent smaller. Customs receipts for January were but $11,500,000, against $21,000,000 last year, and evidently the success in the sale of bonds is a matter of high importance.

Commercial failures for the week number 366 in the United States, against 255 last year, and 52 in Canada, against 46 last year, the list including two of over a quarter of a million each.

Out of 1,822 failures reported in four weeks in January, the liabilities ascertained in 1,634 failures amounted to $19,429,637, of which $8,270,702 were of manufacturing and $10,223,384 of trading concerns, no failures of banking, brokerage or transporting companies or firms being included.

Dishonest Messenger.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The peculations of James Anderson of Indiana, a well connected lad of 18, who enlisted as a messenger in the treasury vault, and who was arrested for stealing silver from the vaults, prove more serious than was supposed. The amount is $704, as far as has been ascertained, and the inquiry is still in progress.

Wolf Kills a Child.

MEMPHIS, Ala., Feb. 3.—The 6-year-old daughter of Ramsey Billups was attacked in a thicket near here by a wolf and so badly mangled that she died. The girl's little brother, in an effort to save her, was also probably fatally torn. He succeeded, however, in killing the wolf with a club.

Chinese Hanged.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Feb. 3.—Lee Sing, a Chinese, was hanged at the state prison yesterday. His crime was the murder of a Chinese during the Highbinder war last March.

General Herzog Dead.

AARAU, Switzerland, Feb. 3.—General Herzog, the founder of the Swiss army organization, is dead. The cause of his death was influenza of the lungs.

ALL HAWAIIAN TALK.

How the House Put in the Entire Day.

IT IS UNDER A SPECIAL ORDER.

A Vote Will Be Taken Next Monday at 4 O'Clock—Some Lively Speeches Expected in the Meantime—An Uneventful Day in the Senate—Proceedings of Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The debate on the Hawaiian matter began in the house yesterday under a special order, which will bring it to a vote next Monday at 4 o'clock. The adoption of the order was preceded by a very lively passage at arms between Mr. Boutelle and Mr. Catchings of Mississippi, a member of the committee on rules, which resulted in two attempts made by the former to have the words of the latter excepted to by the house and subject him to censure.

Only two speeches were made, the first by Mr. McCreary, which was the opening argument in support of the resolution under discussion, and which consisted of a very long critical and analytical review of the entire situation from the first inception of the revolution early in 1892 to its consummation in January, 1893. It was in every respect a strong arraignment of the action of Minister Stevens, who was boldly charged with complicity in the alleged plot to overthrow the existing monarchy.

Mr. Hitt's reply was marked by great feeling and vigorous utterance. In his denunciation of the policy of Mr. Cleveland and characterization of the deposed queen he used the strongest possible terms, frequently eliciting the applause of his Republican colleagues. He had not concluded his speech when the house adjourned.

The resolution which forms the basis of the present discussion is that of McCreary, condemning the acts of Minister Stevens and approving the policy of the president, at the same time expressing the sense of the house that the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands is inexpedient.

For this the Republicans have offered the minority report, approving of Minister Stevens' action and condemning the acts of the present administration. It is the course of the proceedings yesterday, Mr. Blair of New Hampshire offered, in the shape of an amendment, a resolution in favor of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The day in the senate was not an eventful one. After an hour's debate early in the session the resolution of Senator Peffer was adopted, calling upon the secretary of the treasury for the names of persons and corporations bidding for United States bonds and the amount of bids and the rate of interest. The original resolution of Senator Stewart, denying the authority of the secretary of the treasury to issue bonds at this time, was then taken up and consumed the remainder of the day. Senator Vilas making the principal argument in opposition to the resolution.

The senate adjourned without action on the resolution.

At 4:15 the tariff bill was reported to the senate by the clerk of the house. On request of Senator Voorhes the bill was laid before the senate and referred to the finance committee.

TURNED STATE'S EVIDENCE.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Feb. 3.—Horace Mansfield, colored principal; Mrs. Anna Wood, white, accessory before the fact, and William Algire, who turned state's evidence, have been arrested here charged with the murder of Louis Schilling, one of Kalamazoo's best known citizens, on the afternoon of March 21 last at his office.

Criminating circumstances connecting the parties with the murder are given in Algire's statement, in which he details with great minuteness the formation of the plot between Mansfield, Wood and a young man whose name he does not know; of Wood's watching Schilling's transactions at the bank; of Mansfield's appearance in Mrs. Algire's room about the hour of the murder with a knife covered with blood, and Mansfield's threat to kill Algire if he did not keep still. He also states that an unknown man was concealed in Mrs. Algire's room before and some days after the murder. Mansfield and Wood deny any knowledge of the crime but were very nervous under the state's attorney's examination.

No Agreement Reached.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 3.—The conference between the operators and the miners of the Hocking valley Friday night resulted in nothing looking toward a definite settlement of the wage question. The miners decided they had no right to accept a reduction in wages, as all the miners of Ohio are working under the same scale, and they have called a convention of all the Ohio miners to be held in Columbus next Friday.

Packet Lines to Consolidate.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 4.—Negotiations are pending looking toward the consolidation of the four large packet lines whose boats ply to and from this port. The Cherokee Packet company, Eagle Packet company, St. Louis, Naples and Peoria Packet company and Commerce Packet company are the ones which probably will pool their business. The capital of the new company will be about $250,000.

BELLARE, O., Feb. 3.—The coal miners in this section of Ohio are striking against a reduction of wages and upwards of 3,000 people are now idle. They will not accept a reduction and all mines are closed. Great distress is looked for.

The McKinley bill placed a tariff of 25 cents a bushel on wheat and the Republicans told the farmers that this was done to "protect" them. With wheat selling at 50 and 60 cents a bushel, some of the growers are no doubt wondering where the protection comes in.

The latest candidate spoken of for Secretary of State is Hon. Green R. Keller, Clerk of the present House of Representatives. He is one of the cleverest men in the State, and is in every way thoroughly fitted for the position. Here's hoping he will get there.

The Carrollton Woolen Mills have been sold for $15,000. They cost when built, $75,000, but the "tariff has been taken off of them," hence the decline in price.—Public Ledger.

These mills were in the hands of a receiver before the Wilson bill was ever introduced. They went down under the McKinley tariff.

EX-SENATOR SAWYER and other prominent lumbermen of the Northwest, after careful consideration of the subject, declare that removing the tariff from lumber will not injure their trade. These men probably know as much on this point as those who are crying out that the Wilson bill will ruin them.

Our friend, the editor of the Ripley Bee, certainly reads the Ledger. In this week's issue in the first two columns on the first page of that paper there appears not less than five items "clipped bodily" from the Ledger with no credit. But that's all right, the Tramp is paid for getting the news, and if there is a few folks over in Ohio that don't get to see the Ledger why it is kindness on the part of our brother editor to spread the truth. One thing is certain the Ripley Bee knows a good thing when it sees it.—Public Ledger.

Wednesday's issue of the Ledger contained over twenty items clipped from the EVENING BULLETIN of Tuesday, and Thursday's Ledger had nine items that appeared in the BULLETIN the day before. "But that's all right," We do some clipping ourselves. But if there "is" a few folks in Maysville that don't get to see the BULLETIN, "why it's kindness on the part of our brother editor to spread the truth." The Ledger "knows a good item when it sees it."

THE "CALAMITY HOWLER."

In answer to an inquiry, the Pittsburg Post says: "Calamity howler" is a term invented to describe a certain small class of persons, editors of Republican partisan newspapers, professional politicians and ringsters and pampered and unduly-enriched tariff-beneficiaries and monopolists, who, ghoul-like, would gorge on the corpses of industry and business which they themselves strive to assassinate, in the hope thereby of advantaging their own selfish interests and fattening on the woes of others. Their constant aim and purpose, judging from the result achieved, is to temporarily paralyze the business interests of the country by croaking of hard times, in the contemptible hope that they may be able to falsely fasten on the Democratic party the responsibility for the distress they assiduously endeavor to augment and aggravate. In their cruel selfishness and utterly callous party zeal they wave the beckoning wand of false assertion to conjure forth poverty, business depression and financial ruin, in order that they may hypocritically howl at the party which is earnestly striving to remove the causes which induce calamity. 'Thou did it!' About the distressed nation they cling, to borrow a simile from a great English poet, like hell-hounds, and ring a hideous peal. They would, by calumny and vituperation, drag the fair fame of tariff reform in the dust."

REV. T. S. TINSLEY has accepted a call from the Owingsville Christian Church.

RAYNER COMPLIMENTED.

A Kansas Man Shows His Appreciation of the Marylander's Tariff Speech.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Representative Rayner, of Baltimore, has had many queer letters from all sections of the country since he made his dauntless tariff reform speech in the House a few days ago. One of these letters has gone the rounds of the House and created considerable amusement among the members. It came from a Kansas farmer, and read as follows:
My Dear Sir: Send me 250 copies of your speech. I want to distribute them at church next Sunday. You have preached the best religion I ever heard, and it will keep the sinners awake. I would put another mortgage on my farm to hear you. I have a large farm here, but it has one mortgage on it which is larger than the farm. The McKinley bill has starved us Western people to death. There is nothing free here except blizzards and children. Every man, woman and child who can read ought to read your speeches. I have six daughters, they each want a copy. Four of my daughters are young, two I am afraid have lapsed beyond their time. They say it is the fruit of the McKinley bill. Are you and Billy Wilson single or married, please write. Send us your pictures, agricultural seeds or anything that will give us a show along side of these tariff-protected barons in the East, who have swallowed up all the money and let farmers and mechanics starve. I read about the attack that the tariff people want to make on you. I was a cowboy once; if you are in danger telegraph me. Is there any little office around Washington that Grover would give me? If it pays living expenses that is all I want. I do not care for any more money because I would have to pay it out on my mortgage, and the Government might as well keep it as for the mortgagee to get it. Tell Grover not to bother about the Queen, but to put his whole mind on having the money of this country divided up a little more evenly than it is now. I am for an income tax strong. It don't hurt anybody that hasn't got an income. It won't catch anybody in these diggings. A Government detective couldn't find enough income within a hundred miles of this place to pay his trip out. Don't forget your picture and Billy Wilson's and tell me how old you are.

"Rare Ben Jonson."

We find in an Eastern paper the following poetic contribution from William Armstrong Collins, the accomplished author of "At Long and Short Range." In its perfect finish and delicate charm, it is not unworthy to be ranked with the finest products of the Jonsonian muse. It is addressed "To the Shade of Ben Jonson:"

Unhappy ghost! that with our Shakespeare used to walk,
 Yet failed to register his peerless talk,
 While Boswell pencilled down minutest chat,
 And made immortal his great autocrat,
 Thou wouldst have quite deserved the seventh heaven,
 If thou hadst fixed forever on sparkling page,
 The private wit and wisdom freely given,
 By mighty Wizard of the world's great stage.

Pork Packing.

Price Current: "There has been a lessened movement of hogs the past week, and only a moderate gain over corresponding period last year. The week's packing returns for the West indicates a total of 290,000 hogs, compared with 355,000 the preceding week and 275,000 last year. From November 1 the total is 3,815,000, against 3,900,000 a year ago—decrease, 85,000 hogs. Prices have ruled somewhat lower, and at the close the average for prominent markets is about 25 cents per 100 pounds lower than a week ago, or approximately $5.15."

Slow Work.

During the first sixty days of the Legislature of 1891-2-3 only five bills were passed. Four of these were repeals of local acts and only one of a general nature. Only thirty-six bills were passed in four months. In view of such slow progress, how many of the three hundred bills in the present Legislature will be passed? There is one consolation, the fewer changes made, the better for the general welfare.

Youthful Criminals.

Augusta again comes to the front with some youthful criminals. Recently a lad, fourteen years of age, was detected passing counterfeit money, and was sent to a reform school. This week, Joseph Watson, aged about nine, and Zed Watson, aged seven, were arrested for prying open the doors of the Cyclone store and stealing a lot of watch chains and rings. Both are under bond to answer the charge.

PITTY POINTS.

When it comes to the pass that the Governor of a State with all the machinery of law under his control cannot prevent a low and brutal prize fight within his jurisdiction, then public sentiment on the subject might as well go into retirement.

It seems strange that the law should give to the Governor of a State full power to get aside any and all verdicts of courts imposing the death penalty for the most wilful and flagrant murder, and yet withhold from him the power to prevent a brutal and demoralizing prize fight within his borders.

 When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

FOURTH CLASS CITY CHARTER.

The Frankfort correspondent of the Courier-Journal says: "The Mayors or representatives of about twelve fourth class cities came to Frankfort Thursday for the purpose of conferring with the Committee on Municipalities in regard to amendments to the charter for cities of the fourth class. It appeared that the Mayors or representatives were not agreed among themselves, and the meeting had not progressed far until the only General Assembly members of the Municipality Committee in attendance were Messrs. Lyons and Bright. The most important amendments agreed upon were: One providing that in case a City Council fails to call an election, the County Judge shall issue the call for such an election in fifteen days after the expiration of the time allowed to the Council for making the call. Another amendment was that assessment of property shall be made as of April 15, and the taxes shall be due and payable July 1. From the remarks made it is evident that several of the fourth-class cities want the exercise of greater power to issue bonds for town improvements than is allowed under the Constitution. The subject of extending city boundaries was discussed, and the impression expressed was that the City Councils should have the power to take the initiative."

Fifteen bills were introduced in the House Friday. Mr. Hiles, of Bracken, proposed a measure prohibiting the construction of barbed wire fences along State and county roads.

The other important bills were as follows:

By Mr. Gooding—To prevent hunting and trespassing in this Commonwealth; also an act amendatory to the charter for cities of the fourth class.

By Mr. Simms—To amend the charter of cities of the fourth class. It empowers the City Council to employ additional police force.

By Mr. Trimble—Proposing an amendment to section 253 of the Constitution by a vote of the people. The effect of the proposed amendment is to allow the working of convicts on the public roads of the State.

Mr. Bright—An act reducing from $2.50 to $1.10 the fee of the Secretary of State for recording the quarterly reports of private corporations.

Mr. Button—An act to provide for turnpike and gravel roads.

Mr. Sanders—An act relating to revenue and taxation. It is intended to cover certain alleged defects in the assessment of corporation property.

Mr. Johnson's bill to reduce the fees of County Court Clerks in recording mortgages of $30 and over was passed by a vote of 58 to 23.

Senator Weissinger's bill to increase to $5,000 the annual salary of the Judges of the Court of Appeals was passed by a vote of 25 to 11. It does not affect the incumbent Judges.

A discussion came up over the bill to allow medical colleges and schools to grant diplomas to physicians to sell drugs in like manner as druggists. The bill was passed by a vote of 58 to 20. The title of the bill, which is fully explanatory, reads: "An act to make medical schools and colleges equal and co-ordinate with pharmaceutical schools and colleges in their powers and authority to issue and grant certificates, license and diplomas to graduates to compound medicines and sell drugs and act as pharmacists in this State."

EVERY man who would be successful in his business must expect to find plenty of up-hill work. Advertising will not make your fortune in a day, but, if done judiciously, it will pay handsomely in the long run.

AT Ironton, William Laywell, aged eighty, and Mrs. Harriet V. Martin, aged sixty-one, were married Thursday. This is the fourth time the gay William has been married, while the bride has two husbands gone before.

POLICEMAN McKELLUP attempted to arrest a young man named Hildebrandt in the Sixth ward yesterday afternoon, but the fellow had too much the start, and escaped. The officer fired two or three shots in the air but they didn't have the desired effect of checking the young man's flight.

ROBERT G. PATRICK, pastor.

SEVEN desperate criminals confined in the Covington jail have been planning to escape, but the officials got on to the scheme yesterday. A search of the cells brought to light twenty saws. They were concealed in a mattress. The scheme was given away by a letter from one of the gang to his wife at Brooksville.

SERVICES in the First Presbyterian Church to-morrow morning and evening conducted by the pastor. The Westminster Society of Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Church Sabbath school at 9:30 a. m. Mission Sabbath school in the German Church at 2:30 p. m. Subject of morning discourse, "Science and Bible History." The public is cordially invited to attend all these services.

A Nervy Thief.

Bourbon News: "James Ayers, colored, had his pocket-book containing nineteen dollars, stolen in Claysville Thursday, and his friend James Fauntleroy volunteered to take him to the proper official to have a warrant sworn out against a suspected party. While Judge Mann was issuing the warrant Constable Joe Williams saw Fauntleroy fumbling suspiciously with the front of his shirt, and when the Constable investigated the matter he found the stolen pocketbook and its contents on Fauntleroy's person. He was taken to jail to await trial. The thief had his nerve along with him to say the least of it."

Major Chenoweth's Appointment.

Major Chenoweth received a telegram yesterday afternoon from Senator Blackburn stating that his appointment as postmaster had been confirmed by the Senate.

His bond will be executed and forwarded to the department as soon as the necessary blanks are received. He will assume charge of the office at an early day.

New Grocery Firm.

Messrs. Joseph H. Crawford and Howard S. Cady have formed a partnership and will open a first-class grocery in a few days in the room at Neptune Hall. They are worthy and industrious young men, and the BULLETIN bespeaks for them a liberal patronage. The public can rest assured of courteous treatment at the hands of the new firm.

Thanks, But Let It Pass.

Augusta Reporter: "Major Thomas J. Chenoweth has received the appointment of postmaster at Maysville. The Major is a popular man, but we would rather Bro. Marsh of the BULLETIN had gathered the plum, on the principle that newspaper men never get half the good things their self sacrificing efforts deserve."

TAX ON STATE BANKS.

An Effort to Repeal It Defeated by the Committee on Banking.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The effort to repeal the tax on state banks circulations was beaten in the committee on banking yesterday by a vote of 8 yeas to 9 nays. The vote was taken on the bill of Representative Cox, which relieves state banks from any tax on their circulation, but does not extend the relief to circulation issued by private individuals or corporations.

The vote in detail was as follows: For the bill—Cox, Tennessee; Cobb, Alabama; Hall, Missouri; Ellis, Kentucky; Johnson, Ohio; Cobb, Missouri; Black, Georgia, and Culbertson, Texas, all Democrats.

The favorable votes of Johnson of Ohio and Cobb of Missouri were given with the reservation that they would vote against the bill on the floor of the house. A second vote was taken on a motion to reconsider the motion to lay on the table. This time the lines were differently drawn, although the result was the same, 9 to 8. Ayes: Sperry, Culbertson, Walker, Brodine, Henderson, Russell, Haugen, Johnson (Ind.), Springer. Nays: Cox, Cobb, Cobb (Ala.), Ellis, Warner, Johnson (O.), Black, Hall.

Mr. Warner says that his new bill will be designed to secure repeal speedily and with it an elastic currency.

Several other bills to secure the repeal of the state bank tax with various limitations are before the committee, but may not be taken up. Chairman Springer of the committee said, concerning the vote: "I do not regard it as finally disposing of the state bank question. It will get before the house in one form or another."

THE NEW BONDS.

They Are Already Being Printed and Will Soon Be Finished.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Subscriptions to the amount of $59,002,250 for the new bond issue have been received at the treasury department. Few if any further subscriptions are now expected, as most of the offers, of which notice was sent by telegraph, are all in.

The bureau of engraving and printing began yesterday the printing of the new bonds. They will be completed by Tuesday or Wednesday and sent to the treasury for the proper signatures.

When all the details are completed the new bonds will be forwarded to the several subtreasuries, with the name of the subscriber, the amount allotted him, and the denomination of the bond that he desires.

Fatal Fight.

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 3.—Early yesterday morning Teb Burns and Lewis H. Bullis, members of the Citizens' Hose company, quarreled while intoxicated and Burns called Bullis a villain. The latter resented the insult, and made an attack on the offender, who ran out in the street. Bullis followed, and, drawing a knife, plunged it into Burns' neck, killing him almost instantly. The murderer was once a well-to-do resident of Buffalo, while Burns, the murdered man, was an inoffensive railroad man of this city.

Drunken Man Fires a Hotel.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—During a fire in the Star hotel last night, a man supposed to be William Dill, was burned to death. He was drunk when shown to his room and caused the fire by upsetting a kerosene lamp. Mr. and Mrs. C. Fredericks, who boarded in the hotel, were slightly scorched in making their escape. The damage to the hotel amounted to $4,000.

A Woman Dentist in Africa.

Bishop Taylor, the founder of the Methodist Episcopal missions in Africa, has been trying for several years to get a proficient dentist to go out to his diocese and fix up the teeth of his missionaries. He finally induced Dr. Jennie M. Taylor to take a special course in dentistry and go out with him on his next visitation to his African diocese. They are now on their way thither together. Dr. Taylor is a daughter of Rev. A. E. Taylor of Dr. Jennie M. Taylor.

Martinsville, Pa., a younger brother of Bishop Taylor. She is a very learned young woman of 26, entitled to write A. B., A. M., M. D. and D. D. S. after her name. She is small in stature, but robust, and has no fear of the hardships which will have to endure on her long trip, which will include sojourns in Liberia and the province of Angola and a voyage of several hundred miles up the Congo.

FIGHT AMONG MINERS.

Such is Liable to Take Place in the Near Future.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 3.—For some time the miners in the Montgomery mines have been on a strike, and have been trying to induce the men employed by the Stevens Coal company at Acme to quit work, but without avail.

Thursday Sheriff Tilman of this city received a telegram from the Stevens Coal company stating that the Montgomery miners were preparing to march to Acme to drive out the working miners and asking for protection of life and property. A deputy was sent and yesterday another telegram was received stating that 150 men from Montgomery had started up the creek on foot for Acme and asking for help.

The sheriff, accompanied by seven deputies, left yesterday evening for Acme, about 30 miles up the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. The mines are about 10 miles from the railroad and it is impossible to ascertain the present aspect of affairs there. It is known, however, that the Montgomery miners have been endeavoring to induce the men at Acme to quit work and that the operators told them to do as they pleased in the matter.

The men decided to work, whereupon the strikers determined to use force, and 150 of them left Montgomery for Acme armed with Winchester with the avowed intention of forcing them out. When last heard from this party was about half over the 10 mile stretch from the railroad to the mines at Acme. Three hundred men gathered at the mouth of the creek to wait for the train on the branch road to carry them to Acme, but when the crew saw that the officers did not come from Charleston as they expected they refused to pull out the train, though the crowd tried to force them to do so.

The latest information from Acme just received, states that the miners there will resist the strikers. They are about 300 in number, and are all armed. Both sides are determined, and serious trouble is almost certain to take place.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Two children of James Scanlon, aged 1 and 3 years, were burned to death and Mrs. Scanlon frightfully burned in her efforts to save them from her burning home at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Scanlon had been absent from the house a few minutes, leaving the youngest child tied in a rocking chair and the other little one at play, while she went to call another child in from the street. When she opened the kitchen door on returning she was driven back by the flames, which enveloped the youngest child. In her despair the mother ran around to the front of the house to rescue the other child but the door was locked and she could not open it.

Seeing the child at a window trying to get out the mother sprang to save it, but was overcome by her own terrible burns and fell in a swoon before she could rescue her babe. The house was entirely destroyed, and the children burned to a crisp. The mother's burns are not fatal, but her reason is tottering and will likely leave her.

An Old Landmark Gone.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 3.—The Mansion house, near this city, was burned yesterday. Loss, $3,000. The building was 140 years old and stood on the Gordon farm, where oil was first struck in the so-called Gordon sand.
